December 21st

20 Mirtul: Picking up with the party trekking home from Fort Beluarian; the party fought a mob of ghouls (battle pending at the end of previous session) -- the new Bond died! The rest of the party finished the ghouls with no further casualties, and Ms Moneypenny flew right off to MI-6. The party got to Port N. late that day: the new Bond (looks like Timothy Dalton now) was already waiting at Kaya's!

(we heard a rumor: Dwarves are trying to resettle the Wormheart Mines -- but there is a red dragon living there.)

21 Mirtul: We decided to make a river trip towards Mezro: this entails sailing past the "fire-finger" folk, located 5 days up the river; we all pitched in to procure a riverboat, and set out to arrange support. We convinced Flask and River Mist to be our guides again -- we also hired Tebin to accompany us! (2gp/day)

22 though 24 Mirtul: We set off bright-and-early on the 22nd: the first three days on the river were uneventful -- and the weather was unusually cool, with some light rain.

25 Mirtul: A hot morning -- and alligators attacked! They flipped our river boat! We were able to dispatch them fairly quickly, and the rest of the day was uneventful -- HOT, but uneventful.

26 Mirtul: More unusually cool weather, this time with heavy rain. Despite poor flying conditions, a batch of flying snakes attacked at lunchtime! Even worse, that evening -- during a break in the rain -- five huge cetzoquotles mauled the party! After a hell of a fight (but Bond didn't die this time!), we camped out in Fire-Finger territory...

experience awarded: 2,045 each! (everybody is now at 3,785)
